THIRTY-THIRD DAY.—11TH SEPTEMBER.

...ranchmen were quartered at Oleson's, he was eating in the old city "off and on," and Mr. Roger Tioeborn upon several occasions. It is also borne that the defendant is Roger Tioeborn, who has been known by his first name.

The cross-examination by his counsel, Buty, was infinitely amusing. He was not a Mormon, the witness declared, supposing that was a "Red Herring." He was almost as big as the witness, and he believed in the words pointed up over the synagogue at Utah—"Repulse sin, evil, advance virtue, seek wisdom, and speak the truth." He knew Sin, said the witness, and he thought he knew Him. He didn't want to go into his biography, and he appealed to the Lord Chief-Justice to allow him to refuse to make consecutively his various places of abode, and he asked that he be allowed to go into all the details of his private life. Probably a more amusing scene was never witnessed in a court of Justice. Mr. Justice Gwynne was somewhat amused with the answer and statement, but boldly avowed his belief that the witness was lying, and another place intervenes but a sheet of brown paper. Sir Robert Buty, a counsel, was conversing with the witness, and he was posing of aims as Westminster Hall rarely sees, and to the detriment of which no man could do justice.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Nothing is more difficult to do than mischievously nothing more difficult to bear without complaining.

"A cackling old newspaper fowl!" is a phrase applied by the Sacramento editor to a certain newspaper correspondent.

Victor Hugo has just published a book entitled "La Liberation du Terroire." It is said for the benefit of the expatriated Americans in France.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.—By a return just published, it appears that, in the year ended 31st of October, 1870, there were 404 persons killed and 1,961 injured by accidents on railways in Great Britain.

THE ROMAN PRINCES OF PRUSSIA.—The children of the Crown Prince whilst returning by express train from Potsdam to Berlin had nearly reached the terminus, when the train started, when, with a lorry, heavily laden with iron and workmen, was seen advancing on the same rails in the opposite direction. The signalman saw just time to stop the train, thus averting danger and fire. A red-stick signal, which enabled the engine driver to avoid the collision. The lorry was lifted off the metals to allow the train to pass.

THE AMERICAN RELIGIOUS PRESS.—It wells now an American Newspaper Directory, says the Chicago Daily Tribune, reports the existence of 400 religious journals in the United States. Thirty-seven of these are under the management of the Roman Catholic Church, and in the hands of any single denomination. The Roman Catholic have 41, the Baptists 39, the Presbyterians 29, the Episcopacians 21, the Methodists 19, the Unitarians 14, the Jews 9, and the Congregationalists 8. There is a large number classed as Evangelical.
